As a contribution to internet heritage resources on early Toronto, this website was commissioned by the Citizens for the Old Town in 2014 with the intention to aggregate the web resources on the Old Town, provide a locus for web information about the Old Town for interested visitors, provide foundational information on sources for Old Town researchers and document the changing urban and heritage landscape of the Old Town.

The Citizens for the Old Town is heritage focused non-profit organization of volunteers, with the purpose to raise awareness of the valuable heritage character of the historic district where "Toronto First Began". Board of Directors 2014: Michael Cruickshank Alan Seymour and Rollo Myers.

The contents of this site are based on two documents: the Survey of Research Resources written by Samantha Thompson Ph.D, 2014 and the Heritage Landscape Guide by Rollo Myers, Heather Thompson and Gordon Nelson, Heritage Resources Centre, University of Waterloo, 2001.
